PAPERS AND NOTES IN THE JOURNAL

	Page
Improved wear- and corrosion-resistant steels, by J.V. Bee, J.A. Peters, M.W. Atkinson, and G.G. Garrett	1
The performance of continuous miners in South African collieries, by D.R. Hardman and J.W. Oberholzer	7
Some productivity perspectives for the South African mining industry, by J.A. van der Westhuizen	15
Spotlight on underground mining methods and technology, by L. Wade	22
A brief review of corrosion-fatigue phenomena in simulated pressurized water-reactor environments, by J.H. Bulloch	29
Electrokinetic solid–liquid separation of an ultrafine kimberlite suspension, by W. Wilmans and J.S.J. van Deventer	41
The control of ground vibration from colliery blasting during the undermining of residential areas, by J.R. Brinkmann	53
Spotlight on the Mine Metallurgical Managers' Association of South Africa, by A. Buncombe	62
The use of three-dimensional stress analyses in predicting the stability of large open stopes, by G.S. Esterhuizen	65
The effect of vanadium on the reversible temper-embrittlement behaviour of low-alloy chromium and chromium–nickel steels, by A.P. van Wyk and G. Pienaar	73
Predicting the quality of waste-disposal seepage for desalination treatment, by A. Smith, A. Ward, and D. Harpley	79
The growth of fatigue cracks in rail steel, by J.H. Bulloch	93
The freeze desalination of mine waters, by R.D.C. Shone	107
The first six years of the Chemwes Uranium plant, by M.A. Ford, H.A. Simonsen, E.B. Viljoen, M.S. Janssen, and J.L. Taylor	113
The joining of tungsten carbide hardmetal to steel, by I.T. Northrop	125
The use of water jets to assist free-rolling cutters in the excavation of hard rock, by O. Fenn	137
The Jones–Trickett ratio—a worthwhile management tool, by R. Morris	149
Spotlight on the Vaal Triangle Branch, by D. Wilson	156
Prediction of the volatile matter in coal from ultimate and proximate analyses, by G.A. Matthesius, R.M. Morris, and M.J. Desai	157
Spotlight on the Western Cape Branch, by J-P. Franzidis	162
A fractographic study of corrosion-fatigued specimens of A533B steel, by J.H. Bulloch	163
Computerized data logging	188
The vegetating of mine-residue deposits on the Witwatersrand, by D.D. Marsden	189
Refining steel to below 0,01 per cent carbon by oxy-hydrogen lance without argon, by W. Bleloch	197
Guidelines for the derivation of reliable material balances from plant data, by L.C. Woollacott and W. Stange	207
Die opleiding van ingenieurs-in-opleiding in Yskor se mynboudepartement, deur B.C. Alberts	219
Stress–corrosion cracking of reactor pressure-vessel materials in a simulated pressurized water-reactor environment, by J.H. Bulloch	233
Moontlike toekomstige gedrag van bedryfskoste in die Suid-Afrikaanse goudmynbedryf, deur R.R. Mears	243
Spotlight on readership survey, by R.W.O. Kersten and J.D. Austin	252
Wear-debris analysis as an integral component of machinery condition monitoring, by G.J. Wright and M.J. Neale	253
Platinum-group metals—a resource in the tailings of chromium mines in South Africa, by G. von Gruenewaldt and C.J. Hatton	265
An evaluation of the electrochemical oxygen probes used in steelmaking, by M.J.U.T. van Wijngaarden, R.J. Dippenaar, and P.M. van den Heever	269
The detoxification of gold-mill tailings with hydrogen peroxide, by A. Griffiths, H. Knorre, S. Gos, and R. Higgins	279
Spotlight on milling, by G.J.C. Young	284
Turning the tables—an interactive approach to the traditional estimation of reserves, by Isobel Clark	293
Economic optimization of the number of boreholes and deflections in deep gold exploration, by E.J. Magri	307
The petrographic composition of Southern African coals in relation to friability, hardness, and abrasive indices, by L.M. Falcon and R.M.S. Falcon	323
Presidential Address: Planning the utilization of South Africa's coal reserves, by B.C. Alberts	371
The application of excess shear stress to the design of mine layouts, by J.A.L. Napier	397
Possible improvements in mine valuation due to the use of the gamma-ray fluorescence gold-ore analyser, by E.J. Magri and D.M. Hawkins	407
Microbial corrosion of iron-based alloys, by C. Ringas and F.P.A. Robinson	425
Spotlight on minerals processing in the Western Cape, by C.T. O'Connor and J.S.J. van Deventer	438
